Pyrok will not build in Pontiac

by Ross Dickson

"I have been asked by London to formally inform Quebec we are leaving the province." With those words, Don Bakich, vice-president of Pyrok North America, announced that Pyrok would not be establishing a manufacturing plant in Pontiac County. He was speaking to Pontiac's mayors at the regular monthly meeting of Pontiac MRC on Tuesday evening, June 27.

Pyrok had planned to build a cement-bonded particle board factory on the Hilton Mine site in Bristol, but it needed financial assistance from the government. The company intended to buy some equipment in Europe that had been used in the same process. The factory would have employed about sixty people.

Mr Bakich stated that the reason for the decision to drop the project was the difficulty Pyrok had in obtaining any help from the government. "We were not getting the cooperation we thought we would get."

He was unwilling to speculate on the individuals or departments or organizations responsible for the difficulties, noting, however, that the problems "began when the federal government, decided to refuse us, and slowly migrated to the provincial level. I know where the block was at the federal level; I don't at the provincial."

The final decision was made last week by Pyrok's parent company in England, following a meeting on Monday, June 19 in Quebec City with representatives of Rexfor (a forestry development company controlled by the government), the SAO and the Ministry of Energy, Mines and Resources. According to Mr Bakich, "Quebec does not believe in us. Pyrok was offered one million dollars, [but] subject to conditions beyond what we felt we could fulfill. We were told flatly that 'this is it'. The conditions were non-negotiable."

"I really don't know what is going on," he said, when asked by MRC Warden Denis Larivière why the attempt had failed. "Quebec's delegation flew to Wales. They approved of our plant there. We thought until last Monday we would walk away with something do-able. We were surprised."

Mr Bakich would not state what Quebec's conditions were, nor did he offer any hope that further efforts by the mayors would have any effect on the decision. "There is no more money in the pot. We have spent a half a million dollars on the project." he claimed. "It was costing $40,000 a month while we were waiting."

He did say that his company was considering other options in North America, including the U.S.A.

Mr Bakich stated that there are "a number of individuals at the MRC and provincial level who have given their most." In answer to questions about the value of any further action by the mayors he said, "You're asking the wrong person. I'm very disillusioned. But, they are businessmen in London. If some one from Quebec phoned them with an offer, possibly they would consider it."

The mayors unanimously passed a resolution to ask the government for an explanation of what the conditions were and why the project had been refused.

As Bob Ladouceur, pro-warden, put it, in supporting the resolution, "This decision by Quebec means sixteen months of work down the tube. If this is their attitude, why bother continuing our efforts for economic development?"

MRC deficit $95,000 in 1988

Financial statements showing that the Pontiac MRC incurred a deficit of $95,663 for the 1988 fiscal year ending December 31, 1988 were presented to the mayors at their regular meeting of Tuesday evening, June 27.

There was considerable discussion of the reasons for the deficit, and concern by everyone that there was no indication at the November budget meeting that a deficit was imminent, let alone one so large.

The warden of Pontiac MRC, Denis Larivière, stated that one of the reasons for the deficit was the construction of the addition to the County Building and the renovation of the older section. The accounting system in practice was inadequate to the demands placed on it by the increased volume of transactions that resulted from the MRC taking on direct responsibility for the work.

Consequently, a shortfall in revenues from the licence bureau and the PARCQ (home renovation) program was not recognized, and the amount of money owed by the MRC was underestimated, resulting in the belief that in November the budget for 1988 was being met.

A few months later, it was clear that expenses for the building project were higher than predicted and that revenues were not up to expectations, however, the full extent of the problem was still not appreciated.

Revenue changes

The drop in revenue resulting from the operation of the licence bureau amounted to $15,509, from anticipated revenues of $58,000, very similar to the previous year. According to Pro-warden Robert Ladouceur the amount of business done in 1988 was similar; the loss was a direct result of the provincial government unilaterally changing (and reducing) the way it paid for the services rendered by the MRC.

PARCQ revenues were almost $10,000 less than budgeted primarily due to the resignation in October of the agent responsible for managing the program. The secretary-treasurer of the MRC, Jacques Ledoux noted that when the possibility of losing a large portion of this joint federal and provincial grant was recognized, staff were assigned to the program at the expense of keeping the books up to date, further compounding the MRC's problems.

On the plus side, unbudgeted revenues were realized: rent $9,636, interest and miscellaneous $3,981, Challenge 88 $2,366, and a grant from the OPDQ of $53,000 to build a large enough addition to house the SAO and Pontiac LEAD. Including several minor variations from the budget, the total revenue

by Richard Wills

The Commission de protection du territoire agricole (CPTAQ) has refused permission to Don McCredie to hold a country music jamboree or the 1989 Pontiac Steam and Gas Show on his Riverview North farm just outside Norway Bay.

These events have been held at the Riverview North for the past two years or more, but ran into problems last year when a local complaint pointed out that the activities violate the agricultural zoning law.

McCredie applied in early January of this year to the CPTAQ for permission to hold the two events this summer on his farm, which is zoned "green," for agricultural use only. He argued that the 10-acre plot of land in question is only occasionally used for non-agricultural activities, and that this use does not harm the land nor interfere with his farming activities.

McCredie received an initial refusal from the CPTAQ on April 7th, but applied again. He was granted a hearing on June 1st and was promised a speedy decision.

Pontiac MNA Bob Middlemiss, who had previously approached the CPTAQ on McCredie's behalf, was still unable to get an answer as recently as June 26th.

Meanwhile, plans for the Steam Show and the jamboree were being crippled by the delay in approval. Top-name musical performers were holding the weekend of July 21-23 open for the jamboree, but could not wait much longer.

The possibility of moving the Steam Show to another site in time for the August 4-6 date was hampered by the necessity of moving tons of stationary equipment already installed at McCredie's farm.

Disappointed

On July 3rd, McCredie received a phone call from Middlemiss, informing him that his application had been denied.

"I'm disappointed as hell," McCredie stated frankly, pointing out that after all this delay he has still received no answer directly from the CPTAQ.

Middlemiss suggested that McCredie make yet another appeal, but the long-time Norway Bay farmer and hotel owner feels its too late to try again.

"I may be able to go next year," McCredie said, "but as far as I'm concerned it's over for this summer."

Meanwhile, the Pontiac Steam and Gas Association has already passed a resolution cancelling the August date for this year's Steam Show.

Attributing the CPTAQ rejection to a case of the "age-old bureaucratic shuffle," one Association member admitted that the delay has forced his organization to "postpone, if not cancel entirely" the plans for a 1989 Steam Show. However, he does not rule out the possibility of having some sort of exhibition at some later date this year.

But apparently such an event could only take place if the Steam and Gas Association were able to succeed where McCredie failed, in getting permission from the CPTAQ.

Even if luck is on their side, time is not.

New Caisse Populaire in Chapeau

by Denise Belec

The Caisse Populaire in Chapeau inaugurated its new building on Thursday, June 29th.

The community was invited to view the new offices which are located next to the old one.

Following the ribbon cutting ceremony, Father Harrington blessed the new building.

The Caisse Populaire in Chapeau originally opened its doors in 1943.

In 1972 a building for the Caisse was built. At that time, there were only two employees working part-time. It was only in 1973 that the Caisse opened up its doors full time.

With a growing staff and growing assets, the need for a new building also grew.

Mr Burt Colin, manager of the Caisse, said that there was an excess of $600,000 which permitted the construction of the new building.

Over $300,000 was invested in the construction of the new offices.

The former Caisse Populaire office building has been sold to the municipalities of Chapeau, Chichester, and Alumette Island West.

Finished cattle sales in Pontiac

by Ross Dickson

The sale of finished cattle by electronic auction begins on Thursday of this week in Pontiac County.

Organized by the UPA to help provide access to all Quebec markets, the service is available to all beef producers in the area. The Quebec Beef Producers' Federation also guarantees payment of the producers for all sales negotiated through the electronic auction, provided the cattle pass a health inspection.

Until now this type of auction has been available only for veal calves, grain fed calves, cows and bulls. It has already attracted considerable support from local producers who find they can get competitive prices for their animals without having to pay for their transportation to distant sale barns.

According to Robert Younge, chairman of the local sale committee of the Pontiac UPA, producers can continue to sell their cattle wherever and however they wish. However, all Quebec-based slaughterhouses buying finished cattle in Quebec must make their purchases using the electronic auction.

Details for registering cattle for the sale, making arrangements for pickup by the buyer, and for getting paid are available from Mr Younge.

Editorial

Appearances were deceiving

It looked like a sure thing. Last year, Pyrok North America, a company manufacturing a product, tried and proven in Europe, claimed that it wanted to establish a fabricating plant in Pontiac County. It claimed that it had a guaranteed market for the product, and that it could find the supplies it needed nearby.

Last week Pyrok's parent company in England, Pyrok Building Products, which is in turn owned by the Chessminster Group Ltd., advised its local vice-president to close the file. A lot of hopes were dashed by this decision and a lot of questions remain to be answered. Some of the information about the project available to the public does not make sense.

Pyrok claims it spent $500,000 and wasted well over a year in a vain effort to get government financing. The Quebec Industrial Development Corporation (SDI) came through with approval of support right away. Now, a year later the whole deal has collapsed because, first, the federal government was not interested, and, secondly, the provincial government, through Rexfor, imposed unacceptable conditions on its pledge of $1 million. Rexfor is a forestry development company owned jointly by the provincial government and private interests.

The cost of the installation was estimated to be $8 million; $1 million is hardly a sum to block an international company expecting to make serious inroads into the North American building supplies industry. Why did Pyrok not take the money promised a year ago by the SDI, put it with the $500,000, now spent, plus the company's original planned investment, and get rolling at least a year earlier than they could have supposing last month's negotiations had panned out?

From the information provided to the MRC last week, the reason for the failure of the negotiations between Rexfor and Pyrok is not clear. According to the Pyrok representative, the negotiations ended when Rexfor imposed non-negotiable conditions on its involvement with Pyrok. Pyrok's British owners could not accept the conditions, so they walked away. This does not seem to be the way mature adults would act if they were truly interested in seeeing this plant built. Did Pyrok find this an opportune moment to terminate the situation while blaming the government and Rexfor? This fits with the federal government's refusal to fund the project, mainly because of its concern about the financial condition of the parent company.

Or did Rexfor impose unacceptable and non-negotiable conditions on Pyrok because it really did not want to see this plant built in Pontiac? Assuming Pyrok were genuinely surprised by Rexfor's conditions for assistance, what then would Rexfor have to gain from misleading the company for the last few months?

There are hundreds of people working very hard in this County to encourage exactly the kind of economic development promised by Pyrok. There are hundreds more who would have benefitted from the factory, in jobs or spin-off activities. The failure of this project seems to be due to factors completely beyond their control. Perhaps it truly is.

Perhaps there are people with the power to stifle any further development in Pontiac who would like to see the County continue as a supplier of cheap wood and labour, as a ghetto where cheap housing can be found, as a private nature preserve where the wealthy and well-connected can frolic on weekends. On the surface, everyone, on every level, claims to be working for Pontiac, be they federal, provincial, county, municipal or private. It is clear that some are, and some are not. Who is who?

for 1988 was $519,688, up by $43,398 from the budgeted $476,290.

Increased expenses

Expenses were budgeted at $476,290; in fact they amounted to $698,485, up by $222,195. To offset this loss the mayors had previously decided to appropriate the surplus which had accumulated over the past years, in total $83,134. Taken together with the increase in revenues this left a deficit of $95,663 for 1988.

Unbudgeted expenses occurred in several areas. Remuneration and travelling expenses paid to mayors for committee meetings, representation and conventions were budgeted at $19,300. In fact they amounted to $47,979, up $28,679. The actual expense for regular meetings was down $750 from the $26,750 budgeted. The money spent on economic development was down $10,031 from the predicted $28,000.

Direct expenses attributable to each department were as follows. Evaluation expenses were $117,781, $8,321 over budget. (This reduces to $5,955 if the Challenge 88 grant is included.) Planning department expenses were $6,462 over budget at $37,979. The licence bureau was $1,137 over at $44,996; the PARCQ program was $7,030 over at $17,555.

Bank service charges and interest were $8,918, up $6,323 from the budgeted $2,595. Overhead expenses totaled $63,704 (including unbudgeted receptionist expense of $4,712), up $10,839 from budget. These variations add up to expenses of $59,212 over budget.

Building addition

The addition to the County Building accounted for a considerable portion of the deficit. Budgeted at $64,926 it ultimately cost $226,191. In April of 1988, an estimated cost for the addition of $184,950 was provided to the mayors by the architect Pierre Cayer.

With the grant of $53,000 from the OPDQ and the accumulated surplus added to the budgeted amount, the mayors expected to be able to pay for the work. They also expected to save money by having the MRC manage the construction itself. This would have the added advantage of ensuring that as much of the materials and contracting as possible would be purchased in Pontiac.

The building in fact cost $226,191, according to the financial statements. The discrepancy between the architects estimate and the expected savings was a result of the decision to renovate the original building as well as construct the addition, according to Mr Larivière. He noted that this decision was taken by the MRC Council at a time when it was believed that the rest of the budget was being met.

Solutions

Several ways of dealing with last year's deficit were discussed by the mayors. At the moment the MRC has sufficient cash to meet its immediate commitments. The renewal of the $100,000 line of operating credit with the bank and the next payment of each municipality's share of operating expenses will postpone the expected cash shortage a few months, possibly into the 1990 fiscal year.

At that time, the share contributed by each municipality to run the MRC could be increased by about 18%. Some mayors felt that this was more than their municipalities could afford.

The possibility of borrowing the money was discussed. There was some concern expressed that the Ministry of Municipal Affairs would not permit this to pay for expenses already incurred. Should it prove possible, the loan could then be paid off over several years with a small increase in the municipal shares, or by allocating the rental revenues collected from Pontiac LEAD and the SAO to this purpose.

These, and other options will be considered by the mayors at the next meeting of the MRC in July.

Several recommendations were made by the mayors to ensure such deficits and surprises do not occur in the future. It was felt that this could be avoided if the financial affairs of the MRC were presented in a more timely and meaningful manner. It was recommended that a computerized accounting system be adopted, and that financial statements including accounts receivable and payable be prepared for the mayors each month. Some mayors suggested that budgeted revenues not be so optimistic in the future.

Inventory of CPR route fences

by Ross Dickson

A federal section 38 grant has been awarded to the Pontiac MRC to inventory the fencing needs along the CPR right-of-way between Wyman and Waltham. Seven people will be hired for 24 weeks to do the work.

The CPR route, where the train used to run, was taken over by the Pontiac MRC about two years ago with the intention of preserving it as a tourism corridor into Pontiac. The primary users are snowmobilers, however, summer-time users are increasing in numbers.

Mayor Jack Graham, who is chairman of the MRC committee responsible for the corridor described this summer's plans to the rest of the mayors at the meeting of the MRC on Tuesday evening, June 27.

An inventory of the condition of all of the fencing along the 40-mile route will be the first order of business. Some of the fencing that borders farms is in need of repair to prevent the loss of animals, and to protect crops. Once it is known what work is needed, the committee will be in a better position to estimate the cost of the repairs and to schedule the work.

Remo Pasteris, of Bristol, presented a letter to the council of mayors on the subject of fencing. Trucks and all-terrain vehicles have been illegally entering his farm from the corridor. Trees have been stolen, seedlings have been crushed and wild birds and animals have been hunted. He noted that the MRC had as yet taken no action to restrict access to the corridor, and that unless something was done he would be consulting lawyers on the subject.

MRC Warden, Denis Larivière, said he realized the problem was serious, and that the MRC was concerned that it be dealt with. Mr Graham's committee will be looking into ways of limiting access to the corridor.

The feasibility of putting posts across the corridor where it is crossed by roads was discussed. This could stop trucks and cars from using the corridor, but would leave it open to other users. Alternatives, such as gates will also be considered.

Most of the grant is to pay the wages of the people hired, but a small amount of money is provided for purchasing equipment and supplies. Some of this may go into the worst sections of fence.

Mr Graham said that in certain cases the committee may be able to make arrangements to share the costs of repair with the owner of adjacent property who would provide the material while the MRC provided the labour.

Mr Larivière restated the Pontiac MRC's position that it was responsible for half of fencing costs along the right-of-way, and that bordering property owners were responsible for the other half.

A message to the graduates

The following is the speech given by Mr Denzil Spence to the graduating class of St-Alphonsus High School in Chapeau.

When Jantie asked me to say a few words on behalf of the parents, I was somewhat taken aback. I asked her 'What is the theme of the graduating class of 1989?' She said 'Young and Innocent'. I replied, 'You mean the Young and the Restless!!! Innocent? Isn't this 1989? That I can't buy' Let me explore that a bit further.

Let's briefly journey your life up to now. When you were born, some 16, 17, 18 years ago, your very first contact with another person was quite unpleasant: you received a slap on the bottom. You were faced with a situation under which you had no control. You were young and innocent, and what did you do? You cried.

Some five years later, your first day of school, once again, you were faced with a situation of which you had no control, your were helpless! What did you do? You were young and innocent. You cried.

Later on, your first high school dance, when the boy or girl you liked danced with someone else, what did you do? You were young and innocent. You cried.

Actually, when you were caught in a helpless situation, when the choice was not yours to make or when you didn't like the decision, you cried.

Again throughout the terrible teens when we parents sought to guide and protect you by imposing curfews and consequences, you felt helpless what did you do? You cried. Why? Because you were young and innocent.

The moral of the story is that crying doesn't create change. Don't get me wrong, crying is very much a part of life. A natural complete reaction to unpleasant situations when you are young and innocent. If you don't cry outwardly, you will cry inwardly, so it's O.K. to cry. But, just for a change, don't forget to laugh.

Someone once said: "In order to change, we must experience change." It is not enough to want to change, it is not enough to need to change. We must experience change in order to change. To change is a decision of the whole person to experience something different. To risk oneself and everything one has in order to get something better. To take a risk. To be vulnerable. It is hard. It is personal. It is to risk the unknown. Change is giving up a certainty to experience something different. And the most vital ingredient necessary to experience change is courage. Courage to face the unknown.

You may ask "Where do I get this courage?" We parents cannot give you courage. Courage comes from God. If you have found a God, a loving God, pray as if you do believe and you will come to believe, and you will eventually find courage.

We parents encourage you to love people and use things, not to use people and love things.

I quote: "I sought to hear the voice of God, I climbed the highest steeple. God said, 'Go down my son, I dwell among the people.'"

God does dwell among the people and you are the people among whom he dwells.

We would like also to remind you that the most tremendous little single part of you is your self-respect.

How do you keep self-respect? You produce, you act, you do. You do your best, nothing more, nothing less, just your best.

Every one of you, way deep down inside yourself has a need. That need is to be needed. Someone does need you. Society needs you. We need you to be honest, trustworthy and productive citizens. That's all we ask.

We must also remind you that every person on earth is just as important as you are. Not more important, not less important, but equal – regardless of sex, age or religion.

Would it be too much for us to ask you to make a commitment to God? To live in a way that you are willing to put yourself in service to humankind? If you put your neighbour first, there will be happiness and success far greater than you could ever imagine.

Finally, graduates, we ask you to be cautious in your celebrations tonight and always. I have another graduation to attend on Sunday (June 25th) in Renfrew. Unfortunatly, Jennifer won't be there. You see Jennifer died on Thursday in a car accident returning from Portage, celebrating her exodus from high school. So please don't ever feel that you can't call us if you need a ride. In fact, call collect anytime of day or night.

Bon voyage graduates. We love you.

Denzil Spence is a teacher at St-Joseph's High in Renfrew.

Hilton Mine. Hundreds of visitors were taken on a tour of the Hilton Mines during their open house last Saturday. The mine employs about 450 people producing iron ore pellets to feed blast furnaces.

The Mine includes the site of the old Bristol Mines, which operated from 1872 till 1894. After extensive exploration, Hilton Mines were begun there in 1956, going into production in 1958.

Telephone Co Sold. June 30th was the last day of operation for the Wright and Pontiac Telephone Co, when Lloyd Balharrie, Dr W W McKay and Edgar Reside completed the sale of the company to the Bell Co. Born 54 years ago, the company has served its shareholders and subscribers faithfully. Luskville has had the dial system since 1958. Quyon probably in five years will be dialers too. However, for the time being the operators will still be saying, "Number, please?"

Holstein Meet. The Holstein Club of Western Quebec held a twilight meeting Monday night at the farm of Walter Kilgour and Son, with approximately 70 in attendance. The men's judging was won by Fred Dagg and Wm Hanna; the ladies' winners were Mrs Donald Duff and Mrs Keith Brownlee. Winners of the "Know Your Holsteins" contest, drawn up by Dalton Hodgins and Hillis Connolly, were John Kilgour and George Pirie.

Married. In Yarm United Church on June 13, Ellen Theressa, daughter of Mr and Mrs Stewart Woods, married James David Frederick, son of Mr and Mrs Fred Hodgins of Charteris.

Home From Camp. Pontias Section of Co. 3 of the C F E reached here from Petawawa on Friday night about 11 o'clock, all in good condition after their 12 days' outing at Canada's big military rendezvous, which this year witnessed the largest assembly of troops that has ever been mustered together in the history of the Dominion. Last year's program at the camp is said to have been a tame affair compared with this year's operations, which included field manoeuvring on an extensive scale.

The Pontiac boys figured well in all their undertakings, and captured nearly all the prizes for which they were eligible, leading the other sections in appearance, drill, and marksmanship, and in most of the athletic events.

Garden Social. The garden social at the rectory last Thursday was favored with a large attendance, the only drawback being that the evening was a shade too cool for the dispensing of ice cream and other delicacies to the extent that the ladies had hoped for.

The grounds were lit up with Chinese lanterns and electric lights specially installed for the occasion, and looked very attractive. The program consisted of band and victrola selections, recitations, choruses, and several excellent tableaux, the whole combining to make a very creditable entertainment.

The program was regarded as one of the best ever presented at a function of the kind in Shawville, and all left the grounds when the end came in a satisfied and happy mood.

At Quyon Village School, top in each class were: Harriet Amm, Marjorie Smith, Mildred Blakely, Ruby McAllister, and Edith Buck.

Chapeau Church. The work on the Chapeau Church is suspended for the season. The edifice presents a beautiful appearance from an outside view. It will be some years before the interior will be completed, as the people consider it advisable to diminish the present debt before adorning the interior.

Bryson Pic-nic. The village of Bryson, a few years ago widely noted for the extensive character of its celebrations in honor of our national birthday, seems to have been enfused with a certain degree of its old life and energy if we are to judge from the very successful effort which the citizens put forth on Monday last, to the end that the day might not pass unobserved.

Preparations were made on the ground in rear of the Presbyterian church, where an enclosure of shade trees encompassed the tables and culinary stores, while without were booths for the vending of cooling libations, confections, etc.

Shawville Streets. The corporation have purchased scrapers with the aid of which and plows, a partial turnpiking of main street has been performed. It would be a grand thing now if the Council would evolve a scheme to put a coating of gravel on main street before the turnpiking disappears, by the earth washing back into the gutters from which it was taken.

An evidence of thrift and tidiness would be shewn if all defects in the sidewalks were remedied and garbage removed from the streets before the 12th of July celebrations.

Married. On July 2nd, at Smith's church, Bristol, Mr John S Armstrong of Clarendon to Miss Mary Barton, of the same township.

On Monday the 24th of June, Mr George Sparling of Thorne, to Miss Sophie Bean, also of Thorne at the home of the widow Schwartz of the same township.

Quyon man killed by tree

A 42-year-old Quyon man died following a bush accident that occured in Charteris, on Thursday, June 29th.

Mr Raymond Robinson sustained head injuries when a 30 to 35 foot tree fell on him. He was taken unconscious to the Pontiac Community Hospital in Shawville and transferred to the Civic Hospital in Ottawa where he died, Friday, June 30th.

The Shawville and Clarendon Fire Department was called to help clear a path out of the woods.

Police say Mr Robinson was cutting trees when a nearby tree, which was dead and rotten, fell on him. The accident occurred at about 7 am.

Do organic fertilizers work?

by Lisa Curwin, Macdonald College

A key to the maintenance of soil fertility and maximum economic crop return is the quality of nitrogen fertilization. Organic fertilizers such as hog and cow manure have great value in increasing the available nitrogen to plants. As well, these fertilizers improve infiltration and retention of water, increase biological activity and aid in the soil's capacity to exchange elements.

Optimal application rates of fertilizers, necessary for maximum returns, can best be found through field trials. However, trials completed under the conditons of the Quebec climate have been sparse. In 1982 a research project was initiated at Macdonald College under the direction of Dr. A F MacKenzie, dealing with the fertilizing value of manure and urea. This project looked, principally, at the effects of different organic fertilizers and methods of application. Conclusions from the trials were based on the uptake of nutritional elements by silage corn and the rate of exchange of nitrogen in the soil.

Nitrates are a major sorce of nitrogen available to plants. However, they are also subject to leaching. During this study, soils were tested once a month, from May to October, and analysed for nitrates. It was discovered that soil nitrate concentration was influenced more by the soil type than by the fertilizer type. However, the soil treated with urea showed a greater accumulation of nitrates than that with the manure fertilizer. The fertilizer impact on yield was greatest on the sandy loam, perhaps due to the greater aeration of this soil.

Methods of application yielded significant differences in nitrate accumulation, being more obvious in the sandy clay. To optimize the utilization of nitrogen sources by corn, this experiment found it preferable to plow under cow manure and use a surface application for hog manure. Surface applications should be made with consideration of existing slope and vegetative cover and the possibility of runoff.

Optimum rates of fertilizers differed with the type of fertilizer; manures were best at 240 kg/ha N, and urea at 60 kg/ha N. An interesting result was the cumulative effect of organic and mineral fertilizers on yields. These effects were illustrated by the increasing yields year after year on the fertilized soil as compared to the control group. It must be kept in mind, however, this cumulative effect may only continue for a short period.

Pontiac beaches receive top marks

Pontiac beaches received an excellent rating in a Quebec Ministry of Environment study conducted in mid-June.

Norway Bay beach, Sand Bay Association beach in Clarendon, Leslie Lake beach, the Otter Lake R.A. beach (lac de la Ferme), McConnell Lake in Rapides des Joachims, and Camp Forest Haven in Thorne all received an "A" mark in the study.

Camp Allelu on Alumette Island East and Boire Camping Ground Beach received a C and D mark after the first testing in June. Because both these beaches had received an "A" rating in last year's study, another testing was conducted after the Ministry's first study.

A June 15 testing of the water at Boire Camping showed the water was good for swimming and received an "B" rating. A June 21st study of the swimming water at Allelu beach returned the mark for this beach to "A".

Last year, all of Pontiac's beaches received an excellent mark "A" for the quality of the swimming water.

The goal of the Ministry of Environment's study is to ensure the protection of public health and to inform swimmers of the bacteriological quality of the water at public beaches in the region.

De plus, le communiqué rapporte que 26 personnes feront face à 50 chefs d'accusation pour une possibilité de $52,000 d'amendes, pour des infractions commises lors de la chasse au cerf de Virginie.

Les accusation portent sur: la chasse sans permis; la chasse de nuit; la chasse en temps prohibé; possession illégale de viande de chevreuil; avoir tué plus que la limite permise; et avoir aidé ou incité une personne à commettre une infraction.

Le MLCP désire remercier la population de sa bonne collaboration et les inciter à continuer à protéger notre patrimoine faunique.

La sécurité en premier

Augmenter sa sécurité à bicyclette

La sécurité routière à bicyclette, c'est savoir ce qu'il faut faire pour augmenter sa sécuritié et profiter pleinement de sa ballade.

Voici donc quelques conseils qui sauront agrémenter votre sortie en vélo:

–Porter des vêtements aux couleurs claires, surtout le soir.

–Respecter les règlements de la circulation: Rouler à droite de la chaussée et dans le même sens que la circulation; respecter les arrêts obligatoires.

–Rouler le plus possible en ligne droite: éviter de louvoyer entre les autos en stationnement.

–Signaler vos intentions pour informer les automobilistes.

–Placer vous toujours de manière à être vu par les autres sur la route.

Danger: rouler en sens inverse

Est-ce plus sûr pour les cyclistes de circuler en sens inverse de la circulation? Non, c'est plus dangereux.

La circulation en sens inverse de la circulation par les cyclistes est associée à un pourcentage élevé d'accidents, notamment parce qu'elle comporte des rencontres vélo-auto inusitées.

S'engager à l'envers sur une voie à sens unique, multiplie les risques d'accidents aux intersections et à la hauteur des voies transversales.

Aux intersections, le cycliste arrive du mauvais côté relativement au champ de vision de l'automobiliste.

Rouler en sens inverse augmente le nombre de choses à s'occuper en même temps, augmente les risques d'être aveuglé par la poussière soulevée et en cas d'accident augmente la force d'impact.

Rouler en sens inverse de la circulation, c'est rouler contre l'harmonie du mouvement en sécurité routière.

La bicyclette un poids plume

Sur le réseau routier, la bicyclette est un poids plume. La protection est réduite au minimum et les automobilistes ne l'aperçoivent pas toujours.

La sécurité routière, pour le cycliste, n'est pas de se confronter aux autres véhicules mais d'apprendre à vivre avec les autres. Repérer les dangers possibles, savoir ce qu'il faut faire pour y parer et agir à temps.

C'est aussi appliquer certains principes élémentaires tel que se faire voir et signaler son intention.

IN MEMORY

Bretzlaff - In loving memory of a dear wife Loreen, who passed away July 2, 1978.
From our happy home and circle
God has taken one we loved,
Borne away from sin and sorrow
To a nobler rest above.
No one knows how we miss her,
None but aching hearts can tell
Lost on earth, but found in Heaven
Jesus doeth all things well.
Forever remembered by husband, Otto. bjy5

Sparling - Faye Evelyn (Lathem) - beloved wife of Clarence, mother of Donna (Terry) Hamlyn, Janice (Eric) Ogrins, and Keith; grandmother of Tyler; who passed away July 5, 1988 at Elliot Lake, Ontario, in her 52nd year.
Only one life t'will soon be past
Only what's done for Christ will last.
For Him, she gave of herself each day
Thinking of others, this was her way.
Giving and caring and being a friend
To husband and others, love she would send.
God has rewarded her in His own way
Giving His blessing and peace everyday.
She's moving away to a much better place
A beautiful city that's full of God's grace.
Myriad feet will wend their way
To view the resting place today –
Of those beloved gone before
Who wait for us on yonder shore.
And as we're here on earth below
She would be pleased to know we know –
That life goes on and we must be
As caring and loving a person as she.
We love and miss you...
Clarence and family bjy5

IN MEMORY

Dumont - In fond and loving memory of my very special brother Russell (Rusty) who was killed July 8, 1985.
To me you were so special,
What more is there to say,
Except to wish with all my heart,
That you were here today.
Though, I lost you Rusty,
We will never be apart,
For we'll always be together
In a place inside my heart.
"What we have once enjoyed, we can never lose;
All that we love deeply becomes a part of us."
Forever in my heart Cecile (Slugger) jy5

Fierobin - In loving memory of my dear mother Margeret Fierobin who passed away July 9, 1951.
The hardest thing in life to bear,
Is to want you Mom and you're not there
With a broken heart I whisper low,
God Bless you Mom, I love you so.
As long as I live, I will always be glad
That I was your daughter and you were my Mom.
Always remembered by Manson, Elsie, Dwayne and Connie. bjy5

Sparling - In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather Austin who passed away July 2, 1977.
We often think of bygone days
When we were all together

100-year-old Smith and Brothers expands

by Denise Belec

Smith & Brothers in Campbell's Bay are celebrating two things this week, the expansion of their hardware store and their 100th birthday.

Celebrations will begin today, Wednesday, July 5th with a sale that will last throughout the weekend.

The Smith's have added 45 feet to the store. This expansion will permit the Smith's to display more merchandise in the store.

The Smith Brothers company started in 1887 as a sawmill.

John E. Smith and G. Allen Smith and their father Geo Smith moved from Shawville and set up a mill about six miles east of Campbell's Bay.

In 1910 the two brothers bought a sawmill from McMaster Bros who were operating their mill in Campbell's Bay.

This sawmill was destroyed by fire twice. Once in 1914 and again in 1927. On both occasions the mill was rebuilt on a larger scale.

In 1933 Mr John E. Smith passed away and his son Asa (one of the present owners) took over.

In 1939, Mr G. Allan Smith passed away, and his son, Hillis A. Smith replaced him.

Through the years, the company grew to include a sash and door factory, and a retail business.

In 1949 the partnership was dissolved and Asa took over the sawmill, the sash and door factory as well as the retail business.

Hillis Smith took over the working garage, a number of trucks and tractors.

The sawmill business was discontinued in 1960 and the sash and door factory in 1965.

After that, the business as been strictly retail.

Eighteen years ago they joined with Home Hardware.

In 1976, a Limited company under the name of Smith and Bros was formed by Mr and Mrs Asa Smith, their son Atholl and his wife Marilyn.

Pontiac's 'copper route'

by Ross Dickson

More than five thousand years ago a trade in copper goods flourished in North America from Lake Superior to the east coast. Studies of several Indian camps on Allumette and Morrison Islands by archeologist Clyde Kennedy in the 1960s turned up thousands of copper artefacts: for the most part awls, axes, fishhooks, knives and spearpoints.

The conclusion drawn from this and other research is that the islands and the Ottawa and Dumoine Rivers played an important role in the Indian copper trade.

To study this further, the Ministry of Cultural Affairs will provide a grant this summer to support the work of four archeologists. With the help of the Ottawa-based outfitting company, Trailhead, the archeologists plan to investigate the Dumoine River for evidence of the Indians' presence and activities thousands of years ago.

Trailhead is presently active on the Dumoine River, arranging canoe trips and whitewater canoe instruction along the River, which it describes as the best wild water in the entire [Ottawa River] watershed.

The subject of the Dumoine River study was discussed by the mayors at the Pontiac MRC meeting, Tuesday, June 27, following the presentation of a resolution by the mayor of Rapides des Joachims, Jean-Paul Dupuy. He asked that the project be handled by the MRC, on behalf of the Ministry.

Jean Pierre Ledoux, the SAO tourism commissioner, spoke on behalf of the project, noting the beauty, the tourism potential, the historic interest and the accessibility of the Dumoine River. He assured the mayors that there would be no expense to the MRC.

The mayors agreed to manage the project, on condition that it not cost the MRC any money.
