Oktoberfest Ladysmith

Giant pretzels, wiener schnitzel, and of course beer, were consumed in hefty quantitites over this past weekend in Ladysmith.

The second annual Oktoberfest celebrations were held in this German-descended community from October 3 to 5. Everything from plays, German Round Dancing, lawn bowling and even outhouse races were included in the festivities.

Evangelist and puppets entertain children

by Michelle Tessier

Games, skits, songs, prizes, stories, a film strip and puppets were all part of a special Children's Program at the Bethel Pentecostal Church in Shawville last week.

Children memorized Bible verses, sang songs of praise to Jesus and learned His teachings in a simple and fun way.

Aunt Jean and her Puppet Family entertained the children from Tuesday, September 30 to Sunday, October 5 at the church from 3:30 in the afternoon until 5:00 p.m. During that time, the children were led up Centre Street to the church with the help of Mr Munchie from Hostess chips fame.

Once there, they would register, head downstairs to say their memory verses, have a snack on cookies and juice, and then climb back upstairs for the show.

A different performance was given every day. Songs were sung, verses were recited, prayers were said and stories were told with the help of the puppets, books and a film strip. In the process, the children could gather points, according to their behaviour and work, which could then be used to "buy" prizes.

Aunt Jean is Jean Langille from Missaussaga, Ontario. A children's evangelist for 15 years, she has been doing this full-time since last September. Although this was her first time in Shawville, she has been at the Ottawa Valley summer camp outside Cobden which regroups children from the Pentecostal churches of the Upper Ottawa Valley.

She has also worked at the Queensway Cathedral in Toronto and has appeared on the television program 100 HUNTLEY STREET. "She already has established a respectable reputation," states Bethel Pentecostal Minister William Lumsden.

Rev Lumsden says this children's program is something the church sponsors every few years. Its purpose is three-fold: to give the children something to do after school; to present a Christian message to the children of the community; and to help build up the Sunday School and, through the children, reach the entire family.

Children from three to 12 years old attended the shows for an average attendance of around 90. Jean had assistance from church members and praised their hard work. "I am really, really impressed," she said. "People come to help to make it a real success."

Portage residents protest nude dancers

by Michelle Tessier

Lakeside Hotel in Portage du Fort now has four nude female dancers and the town is not very happy.

On Sunday, September 28, two nude dancers hit the stage for the first time. Their number was increased to four on Wednesday, October 1.

Portage Councillor Maurice Essiambre explains that the Quebec Liquor Bureau gave Lakeside a "spectacle" permit. That licence allows for all sorts of entertainment and is required for such events as rock bands. However, it also allows for nude dancing.

Former Lakeside owner Leo Bourdon did not use that allowance in his permit. When the time came to transfer the permit to new owners Maison Lakeside Incorporated under President Henriette Shank this Spring, the Council thought nothing of allowing the transfer. Now that the new owners have decided to offer nude dancing, the Council wants it stopped.

Mr Essiambre says that the majority of the citizens do not like this type of entertainment. He states that it is not simply the fact that the girls are dancing with no clothes on but it is the clientele which this type of entertainment attracts which is worrying some people. He says that once the show is over, they can "cause problems for the young girls in the municipality."

Portage's Secretary-Treasurer Fernand Roy contacted another municipality which had the same problem. That municipality hired a lawyer and a law was passed prohibiting nude dancing. Now Portage has spoken to that same lawyer and he suggested that town organizations send letters of protest to the owners. The churches, the Recreation Association and the school board have done this. A petition gathering citizens' signatures is now underway.

Mr Essiambre says if there is enough support, the Council will go to the Quebec Liquor Bureau to see if they can get the dancing stopped.

Henriette Shank says she expected to have some complaints. She explains that she decided to have nude dancing to increase business during weekdays. "All I live on is Fridays and Saturdays....I had to try something or lose my place."

The dancing runs from Sunday nights to Thursday nights from 8:30 p.m. to 3:00 a.m.. She says this is only a trial experiment which will go on for three to four weeks. "If I'm not bringing enough in to keep my place going, I'm going to drop it. If it works and will help me survive, I'm going to fight it."

She explains she has taken precautions such as locking the windows and the doors. The girls only take their clothes off when dancing and when they wait on tables, they are fully dressed. They are also fully supervised and cannot leave the premises without permission.

She has an eight-year-old son herself whom she is interested in keeping from seeing the dancers. The windows are darkened to prevent children from peeking in.

"Anybody of age who wants to come in, they come. Nobody is forcing anybody to come in."

Mr Essiambre agrees with this but still raises the concern over the type of clientele attracted. Henriette Shank, who is originally from Sturgeon Falls, Ontario, disagrees that her place will encourage trouble.

"It's not just my place that has strippers. It's all over the place. If people want to cause trouble it has nothing to do with my place....It's their mentality."

She adds that she supports the community by investing in it and if it helps her, she can help it. She says most of the objections are from older citizens who do not even visit her hotel. She also says she has noticed some of the protesters in her place — not just once to see what is happening — but a couple of times.

She is quick to emphasize, however, that this is a trial and she is not forcing anybody to attend. "If it doesn't work, I'll quit and try something else. If I can make a living, I will keep it."

Dump information meeting held in Quyon

by Michelle Tessier

To let Quyon-area citizens know how they would be affected by a landfill dump site in Bristol, the Concerned Citizens Committee (CCC) held an information meeting in Quyon on Wednesday, October 1.

Municipality of Pontiac Councillor Richard Poirier described the meeting as an information night. He explained that some results of tests being done on the site have been released. However, these tests will not be completed until the end of the month.

Maurice Lamarche, of Lamarche & McGuinty Inc. — the owners of the land on which sits Hilton Mines, had presented a submission to the Ottawa task force studying potential sites for the household garbage of Ottawa-Carleton. The Bristol site was considered as an option.

On December 9, 1985, the Concerned Citizens Committee was formed after a public meeting in Bristol to create an opposition to the proposal. CCC President Ed Rady explained that petitions were circulated and memberships were sold. To date, roughly 500 people have purchased memberships and 900 have signed the petitions. Mr Radey estimated that over 90% of Bristol residents are against the dump site.

Bristol Mayor Jack Graham explained that in 1983 all the MRCs, or regional municipal councils, in Quebec were required to come up with a Development, or land use, Plan by December 1986. All individual municipal councils had to come up with their own plan by 1988. Bristol began theirs in December 1985.

As part of this plan, the council passed a by-law prohibiting any landfill dump site in the municipality with the exception of its own municipal dump.

In February 1986, the CCC presented a brief outlining its position to the Quebec Minister of the Environment Clifford Lincoln. This brief included the reasons given for the local opposition to the dump. There is concern for the two main industries of agriculture and tourism as well as pollution into the underground water system and general contamination.

Mr Radey stated another concern that municipalities are responsible for dumps. This means that if the dump site failed for whatever reason, Mr Lamarche "could walk away and we would be left with Ottawa's garbage."

Garbage destined for the Bristol landfill site would probably come from Ottawa-Carleton and the Hull-Gatineau area. It would have to pass through transfer stations in West Carleton and Hull before being transported to Bristol.

The system discussed for bringing the Ontario garbage to the dump site in Quebec involves carrying it across the Ottawa River by ferry where it would be taken by trucks once it reaches the Quebec side. This would entail keeping the River open all year round by keeping its "bubble system" running.

Robert Fowler, Chairman of the CCC Research Committee, was asked to research all he could on garbage. "One of the first persons I spoke to told me that household garbage is relatively clean....He's right." He went on to say that 80% of household garbage is composed of papers and packaging, 15% of food residue, but the remainder could contain such contaminants as paint, oil and pesticide.

These toxic substances could cause serious problems in leakage to the surrounding environment and in the drinking water. "I think it's pretty safe to say that there's not a landfill site in North America that doesn't have a problem," concluded Mr Fowler. "You don't have to believe me. I don't have the evidence in front of me but it's there. You can look it up."

As an example, he cited the Aylmer dump which is leaking and costing the citizens $3 million in repairs.

Theresa Aniskowicz, who holds a Doctorate in Biology, presented slides she took of the Hilton Mine site early last winter. She explained that the shortest distance to the Ottawa River from the site is 3.2 kilometres. Most of the land in between is low and quite wet. There are several streams surrounding the site which flow into the river. Therefore, if pollution escapes from the proposed dump, it could make its way into the Ottawa River. One of the first municipalities which will be hit, says Miss Aniskowicz, is Quyon.

Country Report visits Greermount couple

by Michelle Tessier

On Monday, October 6 CBC-TV's COUNTRY REPORT unit travelled about 14 miles North of Shawville into the wooded hills of Greermount to shoot an episode on Norbert and Leila Senf and the unique art of Finnish fireplaces.

Norbert Senf claims he is the "first person in Canada in the business of building Finnish fireplaces." The COUNTRY REPORT team, composed of host Wayne Rostad, production coordinator Gail Hannah, cameraman André Villeneuve and sound and lighting person Dan Bonstford, as well as writer and researcher Julia Elliott, met with the Senfs to examine the energy efficiency and characteristics of these fireplaces.

The focus of the story is described by the CBC as follows: "Finnish fireplaces provide energy efficient, safe, clean, comfortable heat, far superior to the traditional woodstove if you have the money and space."

The original research, interviewing and writing was done by Julia Elliott who talked with the Senfs for about three hours. A camera crew also travelled to a work site in Tenaga, where a fireplace is presently being built, to get some shots of the work in process. A number of photographs of some fireplaces provided by the Senfs will also be used.

Once the taping has been done, it will be brought back to CBOT-TV in Ottawa where Julia Elliott will look at the various shots and interviews, rewrite the episode and then sit down with an editor to piece it to-

Baseball. The Shawville Tigers have taken the Upper Ottawa Valley Baseball League trophy for the fifth year in a row! In a close 6-5 win over Quyon Sunday, the Tigers took the best of five final series in straight games. So the UOVBL trophy stays right where it has stayed since 1957 — in the safe-keeping of Mr Keith Horner, the genial manager-coach-president of the Shawville ball club.

Catcher Wayne Chamberlain who was barely out of knee-pants when Shawville won its first title in 1957, drove in the winning run Sunday with a sacrifice fly in the bottom of the eighth inning. It followed a Quyon uprising in the top of the eighth. Shawville's five-run lead melted away, Bryan Murray's shutout pitching was shattered, and Earl Powell came in to put out the fire — but only after Quyon's Jack Graham tied up the game with a two run single.

Nursing a one-run lead, Shawville staggered through the ninth to lock up the victory. Powell got the credit for the win, with Gil Fraser pitching all the way for Quyon and taking the loss.

Chamberlain led the way for the Tigers with three runs batted in. Paddy O' Donnell followed with two, and Royce Richardson banged in the other. Bryan Murray whacked three hits and Harv Smith had two-for-two. Gil Fraser rapped a pair for Quyon.

Local News. Mr W A Hodgins installed a Stickney gasoline engine in his elevator last week, with the object of handling grain this year.

A staff of engineers arrived at Portage du Fort a few days ago to locate the site for the crossing of the Canadian Northern Railway, somewhere in the vicinity of the "Lazy Schenail", some distance up river from the village. It is said that the contracts for the construction have been given out, and that Mr M J Obrien of Renfrew is one of the successful tenderers.

Mr George Letts' saw mill at Campbell's Bay was destroyed by fire on Saturday morning last.

It is reported that a very rich strike of silver ore has been made at the Calumet Mines lately. This will certainly be encouraging to the company who are now developing the property and have shown their faith in its possibilities by a large expenditure of money.

Married. At the parsonage, Yarm, on Sept. 20th, Wilfred Bean of Starks Corners to Miss Gertrude, daughter of William Tubman of Bristol Ridge.

Here and There. A large hall, recently fitted up by Mr James Hodgins of Shawville, contributes further evidence of the progressive march of that village.

The town hall, Portage du Fort is undergoing repairs. Did our neighbours take their cue from this village (Bryson)? It will be remembered OUR town hall received a wonderful renovation last summer.

Here and there are yet to be seen patches of grain which have not succumbed to the sickle, and stooks of grain, brown and weather beaten, whose removal depends upon the advent of a dry season, which unfortunately, cometh not.

A gentleman from Montreal arrived at Portage du Fort last Saturday night, for the purpose of stumping the county in French in the interests of the Reform Party. Adopting the advice of some prominent gentleman in that village, he took the first train home on Monday morning, believing the county from the reports he received to be hopelessly lost — or in his own words to be completely under the traldom of Toryism.

Railway Notes. The remaining portion of the line between Bernard Creek and River Coulonge has been put under contract. The contract was given to Mr McAdam, who was to commence this week with a force of 1000 men. With this number of men the work should reach Coulonge in a very short time.

Considerable commotion has been occasioned by the disappearing of one of the ballasting contractors, who it is said left with more money than his own. The company is now obliged to take up and finish the work between Shawville and Campbell's.

Quyon Picnic. The R.C. pic-nic at Quyon on the 22nd and 23rd of September is considered by its promoters to have been a financial success. $500 was realized, clear of all expense. The principal features of the proceeding were the two contests between Misses Bell and McLean for a gold watch, Messrs Joseph Amm and D McLean for a gold-headed cane. Miss and Mr McLean succeeded in carrying off both prizes. Another member of the same family took first prize in the boat race, all three instances showing that name to have been the recipient of fortune's smiles.

Shawville Ex. The regular annual exhibition in connection with the county of Pontiac Agricultural Society No 1 came off on the Society's grounds at Shawville on Wednesday last. Contrary to all expectation, the weather was all that could be desired. The facilities for travelling afforded by the PP&J induced a large number of people to come from Aylmer and intermediate places while the special arrangement to convey passengers from Hughes' and Clarke's over the incomplete portion of the road was also instrumental in bringing a respectable quota. Added to these were large contingents from nearly every section of the county, the whole making the greatest multitude that has ever assembled together on a public occasion in this county before.

Coulonge Notes. We have not yet got quite the length of a steam ferry at Lapasse, but the Messrs Gervais have built, at considerable expense, a screw boat on which they use a span of horses in place of steam, and in which they can safely cross the Ottawa in almost any storm. On Friday evening last they ran from Lapasse to this village (two and one-half miles) in thirty-five minutes. It is capable of taking five double teams with loaded waggons at once. Such a boat was very much needed, and I am sure the enterprising proprietors will be liberally patronized.

Dawson - Hodgins wedding

On August 23, 1986, at St Peter's Anglican Church, Ottawa, Ontario, Pearle Hodgins, daughter of Mr and Mrs Borden Hodgins of Shawville, and Kenneth Dawson, son of Mr and Mrs F Norman Dawson of Ottawa, Ontario, were united in Holy Matrimony by the Rev John G Pearce.

The bride, dressed in her Mother's gown of satin covered with lace was given away by her Father. Her attendants were Beth Bretzlaff, Maid of Honor and Susan and Monica Beeb as bridesmaids. They wore long Royal blue gowns with lace jackets.

The groom and his attendants wore black tuxedos with long sleeved white shirts. The best man was Randy Scott, friend of the groom with ushers Donald Dawson, brother of the groom and Michael Hodgins, brother of the bride.

A buffet supper was held after the service catered to by Elke Beeb.

Out of town guests came from Cobourg, Constance Bay, Limoges, Ontario, Abbotsford, Buckingham, Lochaber, Shawville and Wyman, Quebec, Edmonton, Alta, Rochester, N.Y. and Florida.

The couple honeymooned in Southern Ontario and now reside in Ottawa, Ontario.

Smoke alarms: life saving devices

submitted by Roy Thoms, Chief
Bill Black, Sec.
Shawville Fire Dept.

Fire Prevention Week comes once a year but fire can strike at any given moment. There are many ways that you the homeowner, apartment dweller or business person can help to prevent fires or even save your life as well as those you love most. The installation of a very small and inexpensive device can lower the dangers of being overcome by smoke in your own home. The Smoke Alarm . . . your first line of defence!

Its importance has been recognized by fire departments, municipal governments and insurance companies. Fire departments have long known and have proof that smoke alarms have saved the lives and valuable property of many families, even in our own community. Governments have taken steps in many areas to pass laws making a smoke alarm a compulsory item in every home and apartment. Insurance companies will give you a discount on fire insurance where smoke alarms have been installed.

Most alarms are a very simple device that requires little or no effort to install, no special wiring...just a screwdriver.

The Fire Department feels that every home should have at least one smoke alarm. In nearly all fires where a loss of life has occurred, the fatality was not caused by the flames but rather by suffocation. This type of thing can be prevented in most cases by a smoke alarm.

The Shawville Fire Department which serves the Municipalities of Shawville and Clarendon, urges you to help with fire prevention and the loss of life in our communities by installing a smoke alarm.

Although having a smoke alarm and a fire extinguisher in your residence is not a guarantee against fire, it certainly will lessen the chances that you or your family will lose your life because of it.

The fire department would like to help you with your fire protection plans, check your smoke alarm to see if it is operating and verify that your fire extinguisher is in good operating condition.

This will be done for FREE. The fire department simply asks that if you haven't installed a smoke alarm, purchase one or two and install them immediately. In fact, it will install it for you if you are a senior citizen or handicapped.

This life-saving device can be purchased at nearly all hardware stores in this community. Please do not sadden our community with the loss of your life or someone in your family that could have been prevented by installing a smoke alarm!

The following is a list of fire fighters that will come to your home to help you in any way. Do not call the fire number. Simply call any person listed below at the number given, state the reason you are calling and they will make arrangements to help you in your personal fire prevention effort.

Roy Thoms (Chief) 647-2741; Neil Sharpe (Dep. Chief) 647-2462; Bill Black (Sec) 647-2298; Robert Tracy (Tres.) 647-2671; Richard Armitage 647-2992; Bill Atkinson 647-2876; Clarence Cuthbertson 647-5923; Kelly Hobbs 647-3818; John Hodgins 647-2812; Ron Hodgins 647-2443; Brian Judd 647-2691; Rheal Lafleur 647-5660; Charlie McDowell 647-2579; Blake Pirie 647-2235; Edgar Schwartz 647-2551; Robert Smith 647-2484; Jim Wallace 647-3894.

On Sunday, October 19th the Shawville Fire Department will be holding an open house from one to four p.m. at the fire station.

Global Day

The gift of life is more than blood

Editorial

As the result of a nation-wide appeal a few weeks ago, a young child was able to receive a liver transplant, and his life was saved. Last week a child died for want of a suitable donor, and this week another appeal has begun, for another liver for another young boy.

Today, everyone is touched by the plight of these youngsters whose lives depend on the deaths of others. Today, the appeals are working, the media are co-operating, and quite often the required organs are being found in time. This will not continue indefinitely, however. Eventually people will become inured to the pathos of each individual situation, and another approach will be needed.

One approach has been to include a waiver on each driver's licence, which, if signed, indicates the person's wish that his organs be used in the event of his death. This is obviously not working very well. Even in other countries, such as France, where everyone is assumed to have given permission unless it is otherwise indicated, most organs that could have been used are buried or cremated.

Organs are only of use within a very short time of death. The circumstances of death often make using them in time impossible. The availability of life support systems are virtually essential, as is a means of determining when a person is dead. A "flat" EEG indicating death of the brain is the accepted measure. This makes it difficult for people dying in the Pontiac Community Hospital to be considered as candidates since EEG equipment is not easily accessible.

Even if it were easier here, there would still be a major problem which is hindering the search for donors all over Canada. The problem is that the onus is on the doctor attending the patient to identify a potential donor and then to make the arrangements.

Understandably, doctors are reluctant to intrude on the grief of the bereaved family. There seems to be a general agreement in our society that organ transplants ranging from blood to corneas to hearts are acceptable philosophically, yet when the discussion goes from hypothetical to the real the situation becomes quite difficult.

The only way that sufficient organs to meet the need for transplanting are going to be found is for the doctors to ask the families of the deceased for permission as soon as possible after death is certain.Their reluctance to ask is the main reason why even in France the system is not working as well as it should.

Although it is difficult, those physicians who do ask are finding that the families are responding much more favorably than expected. In the midst of intense sorrow these relatives are often pleased to discover an opportunity to help some one else in need, to turn an otherwise difficult time into a positive experience.

Rustic Rhetoric

by E.B.W. Mulligan

Annual bouya

In the old days, at least once every Fall, in our part of the country there had to be a bouya (boullion). In modern terms, a bash.

Now these were men do's and it usually happened around this time of year — maybe a little later when everyone had roosters about ready to market.

This evening was planned to take place at a bachelor's home or an abandoned farm house where there was a cook stove, a few benches and chairs, a good roof overhead and lots of shanty dishes.

The organizers would prepare everything not more than a week in advance of the bouya. A list was made of everyone who would pay a dollar. The dollar was needed to buy a quart of beer for each person. They then had to buy five or six pans (four loaves) of bread and, if there was any money left over, they'd get a bottle of hi-wines (alcohol) some times as much as a gallon. This would be watered down so there was enough to go around a couple of times.

The salt, pepper, flour, and anything else was scrounged from the cupboards of the party members. The chickens were supposed to be stolen from your neighbour's hen house but someway the wives and women of the area got wind of the bouya and watched the hen house from a darkened bedroom or the parlour to make sure no one stole from them. The men had advance notice and usually gathered up the best roosters two or three days before the event and fed them extra to keep them quiet before the night they got their heads chopped off.

Then there were a few visitors who couldn't contribute a rooster, well they were charged an extra dollar, but they had to take a mild oath to keep their traps shut.

The organizers arrived early, cleaned up the pots, started the fire and put the quarts of beer in old tubs filled with spring water. No one drank before all the chickens were plucked and cleaned for the pot.

One year I remember well, I still had the pledge so I couldn't drink and another old gentleman with a whisker didn't drink either so we were left to get the food ready. Now the organizers found a five-gallon cream can of rhubarb-wine and to that they added hi-wines. One of the visitors who thought rhubarb wine too mild also added a forty-ounce of alcohol to the wine.

I remember well that once the chickens were starting to boil and the beer was served, the stories and songs started to flow out.

Then as the evening progressed, the conversation got ribald but they remembered that they had to go thrashing the next morning to clean out the bottom of a deep mow. The Gibsons were going to finish early and repair the governer on the steam engine. This required a cooling off period of four hours, repair it, then flit to the next farm for an early start on Monday morning.

I'll finish the story of this famous bouya in the next article.

Northern Quebec lake could be scar of giant meteor landing

by Robert Fisher

Tucked away up in the north central part of Quebec (just right of centre, naturally, the area being in the current Prime Minister's riding), is the Manicouagan Reservoir.

There is little upon first glance, from the ground anyway, that sets the area, about 70 km North of the Manic V power installation, apart from any other sector of northern Quebec. Lots of lakes and streams, rivers and trees.

Even a first glance at a map reveals very little unusual about the fresh-water lake.

But a closer look at the map and an even closer scrutiny on the ground reveal some very interesting possibilities.

Fact-finding mission

A five-person group of American researchers from Harvard and Columbia Universities and the University of California at Berkeley recently returned from a five-day excursion to the Manicouagan Reservoir. They were on a fact-finding mission which they hope will help prove a theory that has been bouncing around scientific circles for several years.

If the theory is correct, then Manicouagan County had an effect on the world stage far greater than its most recent rising star will ever know.

One of the people on that U.S. team was Dr Paul Olsen, a paleontologist at Columbia University in Palisades, N.Y.

Geologic evidence

Here's a sampling of what he had to say about the Manicouagan Reservoir:

"When you look at it from an aerial photograph, what you see is a big ring-shaped lake. In the centre of the lake is a large island composed completely of melted rock. The surrounding area (and the lake) is about 1.5 billion years old, but the melted rock in the middle, in the island, is only about 210 million years old. in addition to the melted rock, there are chunks of bashed up and broken, much older rocks.

"Those older rocks, and others we've found associated with them are found only in areas that have been hit by an asteroid — by a meteor, for instance — or by a nuclear explosion. The geology of the area clearly indicates the impact of a very large piece of rock about 200 million years ago."

Asteroid crash site?

Going by what the American researchers say, the Manicouagan Reservoir is an asteroid crash site. This may be hard to believe at first because the lake is about 35 km in diameter, but look at the map more closely. As Olsen says, "It's a perfect bull's-eye."

Indeed, it is, and nothing in the region, or in the rest of the country, for that matter, is even remotely similar in geologic structure.

But if what Olsen says is true, it would have meant an asteroid of immense proportions. He has that figured out too:

"Everything we know about the size is based on estimates, good guesses really, using the volume of the rock that was melted as an indication of how much heat would be necessary. From that we calculated that the asteroid had to be in the order of 8 mi. in diameter."

Giant Explosion

The theory goes on to take on even more awesome proportions:

"When the asteroid hit, it would have released roughly 100 million megatons of TNT-worth of energy. That's about 10,000 times the total combined nuclear arsenal of the Soviet Union and the U.S.A."

Olsen says the rock of the asteroid would have vaporized on impact. But the ecological impact of the event on the world would not have been realized for several years.

Taking the theory further, Olsen says that the explosion would have thrown millions of tons of dust into the atmosphere. In fact, he says, some would have shot into orbit.

The dust which remained in the atmosphere, the theory goes on, would have blocked out the sun for several years, an effect similar to that which scientists now call a nuclear winter. That darkening of the skies in turn would have caused a lowering of temperature on the earth's surface and possibly even widespread freezing temperatures. Any life forms which could not have adapted to such conditions would have perished.

Dates correspond

Olsen says there have been at least two mass extinctions of many forms of life on earth. One was about 60 million years ago, and it completely wiped out the dinosaurs.

The other? About 200 million years ago.

Olsen says the Manicouagan crater is one of only three known of such a size in the world. The other two are in Siberia in the U.S.S.R.

The American scientists took 100 pounds of rocks off the island in the middle of the lake. They have taken them back to the U.S. where they will study them and try to determine their exact age.

Their research has not been limited to Northern Quebec, however. Earlier this year, they spent time in the Fundy Basin in Maritime Canada, searching for traces of the dust blown out of the crater.

"You have to remember that the impact would have shot material right out of our atmosphere," Olsen says. "So when you consider the amount of energy involved, the few hundred kilometers between Manicouagan and Nova Scotia isn't really very far."

Norbert Senf has installed abut 30 Finnish fireplaces so far. He has six more to build. It usually takes about two weeks to build one. Mr Senf learned the art at a workshop in Cambden, Maine in 1981. That same year he built his first fireplace just down the road from where he now lives.

Mr Senf also has a Finnish fireplace 'kit' which he "hopes to send out in world-wide distribution," writes the CBC in its background notes.

The CBC description of the Finnish fireplace reads as follows: "(It) features a twisting, convoluted smoke passage built into a massive construction of brick that soaks up the fire's heat like a sponge and then gives it off slowly and evenly over a long period of time. With a masonry stove, the fire does not heat the room; it heats the stonework which, in turn, warms the room."

Norbert Senf describes this heat as "radiant" heat as opposed to hot air. Instead of simply heating the air, objects in the house, such as walls and furniture, are heated. This heat "radiates" from the objects and, according to Mr Senf, provides more comfortable warmth than a regular woodstove.

Although it takes the masonry heater longer to provide warmth than a woodstove (six to eight hours after the fire is lit), its heating period lasts long after the fire is out (18 hours or more after). The conventional woodstove or fireplace is still best for quick heat.

As the CBC points out following interviews with Mr Senf, the advantages of the Finnish fireplace are listed as follows: no creosote (tar, soot particles, unburned gases) so no pollution and generally cleaner environment; increased efficiency because "more heat is extracted from each piece of wood with unlimited oxygen"; the fireplace's long flue passage allows more heat to stay in the room rather than go up into a chimney — "could slash fuel consumption by more than half"; the fireplace can take more than just hardwood — slabwood, slash, softwood or lumber scraps can also be used; the heat is more evenly distributed allowing for a more "comfortable" heat; and, it is safer because the heater never really gets very hot itself.

These masonry heaters are usually square in shape, seven or eight feet high, with a long vertical flame path which "can suck in enough oxygen for a good burn." They include a firebox, grate, 20 to 30 feet of flue passage, an inner firebox made of firebrick laid with cement and an outer layer of ordinary brick.

Mr Senf says the Finnish fireplace was first invented in the 1800s when a Swedish king held a competition to find the most efficient stove. They are no longer built in Sweden but are still used in Finland.

After shooting some previous scenes at the Tanega work site, the CBC COUNTRY REPORT team met with the Senfs at their home to complete its story. Tentative plans for visuals include an on-camera introduction by Wayne Rostad; Wayne interviewing Norbert and Leila separately; an establishing shot of Greermount junction with the church in one corner; Wayne, Leila and Norbert walking across the property; Wayne and Norbert at the fireplace discussing how it works and detailed shots of the flue and firebox.

Norbert Senf, who is German-born, moved to Greermount about 13 years ago. He and Leila built their energy efficient house themselves in 1980 and also share an apartment in Ottawa. There is no electricity nor phone in their Greermount home which runs on a 12-volt power system.

Norbert's father is a mason and Norbert's occupation involves 50% fireplace work and 50% general masonry.

This episode should be part of COUNTRY REPORT's Fall line-up.

A season of surprises for Quyon ball team

by Michelle Tessier

Surprises usually come in two forms: good and bad. The Quyon women's fastball team, the Quyon Stinkers, got a taste of both this past season.

The team won the provincial junior women's fastball championships and represented Quebec at the Junior Canadians where it finished eighth. All this and it was the first year a junior team from Quyon was entered.

That's the good surprise. The bad one is that Softball Quebec, the Federation which runs the sport of fastball in the province, refused to give the junior team sponsorship for the Canadians while sponsoring the Midget and Senior teams.

Team Manager Jean Rebertz says she received not much in the way of explanations from Softball Quebec. She explains that the team applied for funding and were told they would receive flags, buttons, pins, etc. once they arrived at the Canadian Championships being held in Scarborough, Ontario. All they received were 15 hats and a couple of plastic pins.

Cautious from the start, Mrs Rebertz went to MNA Robert Middlemiss' office which gave the team about 100 Quebec flags to give to the other competitors as well as financial support. "Without him we would have been orphans for sure," she says.

Of Softball Quebec she says the Federation became interested once Quyon won its first game but she adds she could not "imagine what they thought (regarding lack of sponsorship). I don't know why (they didn't sponsor the team). I have no idea."

The players sweated over car washes and bottle drives to raise the needed funds while Mrs Rebertz canvassed the county for sponsorship. Over $3000 was raised to get the team to Scarborough.

When she asked Softball Quebec about the lack of paraphernalia, she was told the team got there on their own and it was up to them to do it on their own. No other explanation was given.

To make matters worse, Jean Rebertz was contacted shortly before leaving for the championships that she needed her licence from the Canadian Coaches Federation. She had passed the test in May but still did not received the piece of paper. She was forced to rush to Ottawa at the last minute to get the permit so that the team could compete.

The Quebec Championships were held in Pincourt from July 11-13. Four other junior teams had originally registered but pulled out. That left only the defending junior champs, St-Celestin, and Quyon as the junior teams competing. When Quyon beat St-Celestin in the first round, the junior championships was theirs.

They continued to play with the seniors during the provincials but gave a game away so as not to win the seniors finals and have to attend the senior, instead of the junior, nationals. Junior level players are aged between 16 and 21.

The Canadian Championships were held August 11 to 17 in Scarborough. All the provinces except Prince Edward Island entered teams with Ontario having two.

In their first game against Saskatchewan, the Quyon girls created an historical event. They won the game 6-5 making it the first time the team from Quebec has defeated Saskatchewan.

The next day they won over Newfoundland by a score of 7-6. After that game, however, they found the competition tougher and lost to Ontario (13-1) and Alberta (3-2). The team did make it to the quarter-finals but lost to Manitoba 3-0. For the record, both teams from Ontario faced each other in the Finals with the final score being 1-0.

Two girls from Quyon were chosen for the Canadian Junior Women's Fastball team as well. Nancy Plymandon will be catcher and France Lachance first base. Third base player Jenny Desjardins almost made the team but lost out due to an error. Quyon is the only team to have two players on the national squad.

The Quyon women's fastball team started out about seven years ago. It began as a Midget-level team before entering the Junior category this year.

To qualify for the Canadians, the team had to play in a federated league. It convinced Eardley to become federated although Quyon paid more to be classified as competitive while the other six teams were participants.

Quyon also belonged to the Intermediate level in Ottawa and played in the Silver league at the Ottawa Recreation Association

(RA). The team played an average of two or three games a week.

Quyon finished first in the RA League but could not compete in the Finals because it was gone to the Canadian Championships. It finished second in the Eardley League because it was gone to the Quebec Championships and had to lose two games by default.

The Eardley Recreation Championships have just been won by the Wilsons team which beat out Quyon in five games. Quyon only had seven players competing due to injury. Quyon's Jennifer Desjardins was named Most Valuable Player while Joanne Clarke won Most Sportsmanlike.

Jean Rebertz says nobody expected the team to do so well. With a new regulation this year, the team is automatically qualified for the Canadian Championships because of its provincial win. That means that the team which wins the Quebec title next season, will travel to the Canadian Championships the following year.

However, to qualify for the Canadian Championships, the team has to hold 50% of its players from this year. Mrs Rebertz admits that some players will not come back because of Softball Quebec's attitude. To make matters worse, Softball Quebec has told the team to eliminate some players because of attitude and sportsmanship.

"The worst of it is when we got there (to the Canadian Championships), our hands were tied. We could not control the game. They (Softball Quebec) did and they did nothing to help us."

However, there were good sides to the Championships. Labatt's Breweries took the girls out on the town almost every evening running up a tab of about $600 per night. As well, the team spent a day at Canada's Wonderland on their way back home.

As part of THE EQUITY's sponsorship of the team, the people and organizations who helped the team get to the Canadians through contributions will be listed free of charge.

Thanks goes out to the following:

Pontiac Junior B's weekend results

Once again this past weekend, the Pontiac Junior 'B' hockey team came away with a win, a loss and a tie in exhibition games.

Friday evening, October 3, in Renfrew, the Pontiacs outscored the Timberwolves 8-3. Dan Romain led the scoring for the Pontiacs with three goals. All three were assisted by Kevin Chevrier and Randy Plouffe. Dan Romain, with Jeff Hodgins, also assisted on Randy Plouffe's goal. Joey Radey followed close behind with two goals. He was assisted by John Peck on both and Trent Reynolds on the second. The other Pontiac goals were scored by Kevin Chevrier (assisted by Greg MacDonnell and Randy Plouffe) and John Peck (unassisted).

For the Timberwolves, Doug Hume, Blair Kean and Brad Jackson were the scorers. They were assisted by Dean Peever and Chris Olmstead on the first and by Dave Spagnolo on the second.

On Saturday, October 4, the Pontiacs played host to the Carleton Place Legion Kings in Shawville. The Kings emerged with the 3-1 victory with goals by Dane Puckett (Mike Costello and Mike Downie), Al Kohci (unassisted) and Paul Leduc (Dale Seabrooke). The lone Pontiac scorer was Dave Keon with John Peck assisting.

Renfrew and Shawville met again on Sunday — this time in Shawville — with both teams playing to a 4-4 tie. Brad Jackson scored twice for Renfrew assisted by Kelly Taylor on the first and Peter Rabbe with Dave Spagnolo on the second. Dave Spagnolo scored a goal himself with assistance from Peter Rabbe and Steve Meika. The additional Renfrew goal came from Blair Keon with assistance from Kelly Taylor.

Greg MacDonnell (Dave Keon and Kevin Keon), Randy Plouffe (Dan Romain), Cory Greer (Rod Twolan and Ken Findlay) and Rod Storie (Dave Keon and Jeff Hodgins) scored the goals for the Pontiacs.

"Biblio-Fête" in Western Quebec

The great "Biblio-Fête" starts with a drawing contest for grade school children. The theme is: "At my municipal library it's always a party". Participants can enquire at their local library or participating school. Prizes for this contest are 10 portable radio-cassette players to be drawn October 24th, 1986.

Moreover, the entire population is invited to participate in the "Super draw" in each of the 50 participating libraries in cities and towns in Western Quebec.

Open house evenings will be held giving the public the opportunity to visit the local library, meet the staff and get a membership card.

Many events are planned for the week including story hour for children, films, guided tours, presentations, etc.

They are Basil Belland and his children Connie, Tracy, Cindy and Ricky; James Belland, wife Ann and son Jason; Constanc Dionne with wife Bev and children Chris and Katy; Wayne Belland, his wife Susan and his son Brad; and Martin Larue with wife Theresa and children Tracy and Rocky.

Deadlines for International Christmas mail

Deadlines for the mailing of Christmas cards, letters and parcels to international destinations have been set for this year in cooperation with foreign postal administrations and shipping companies.

The earliest deadline is September 23 for packets and parcels originating in Newfoundland and sent by surface mail (land and sea) to New Zealand. If sent air mail, the deadline is November 26.

Deadlines for surface mail to foreign countries vary according to destination and point of mailing in Canada. A detailed list may be obtained from local post offices.

Identical deadline dates have been set for items sent air mail — from anywhere in Canada — to a number of various international destinations. They are as follows:

December 1 (packets and parcels) and December 4 (cards and letters) for Great Britain, Northern Ireland, Republic of Ireland, France, Federal Republic of Germany, Netherlands, Japan, Hong Kong, Switzerland, Sweden and Canadian Forces Post Offices.

November 26 (packets and parcels) and December 4 (cards and letters) for Australia, New Zealand, Philippines and all other countries in Europe, Asia, the South Pacific, Africa, South America and the Caribbean.

Detailed information on postal rates, mailing deadlines as well as tips on proper packaging and wrapping of parcels may be obtained at local post offices.

Quebec health card increasing in importance

Beginning November 1, 1986, it will no longer be possible to obtain one's Quebec health insurance number by phone.

Health professionals will also no longer be able to obtain the number of a client, needed to complete the registration during consultation, from the Quebec Health Insurance Bureau (RAMQ).

This new measure is aimed at further encouraging patients to use their card when seeking insured health services. Without presenting the card, clients will have to pay the professional fees themselves before being reimbursed by the Bureau. As an example, a visit to a general practitioner for a check-up can cost up to $41.80.

In the case of lost or deteriorated cards, new ones can be obtained. One must simply fill out an RAMQ registration form. This form is usually available at doctors' offices, pharmacies and health and social services establishments. There is usually a waiting period of 15 days before receiving the new card.

Although the card is automatically renewed every four years, the Bureau always mails the card to the latest address in the file. Therefore, if there are any changes to be made to the card, the Bureau must be notified. In the case of those people relocating outside the province, the law dictates that the card must be returned with the modification notice. However, the Bureau recommends keeping the number for a period of three months after moving.

For all further information, the Quebec Health Insurance Bureau phone number is 1-800-463-4881.

Atlantic Canada Museumobile

The three trailers of the Atlantic Canada Museumobile, produced by the National Museums of Canada, are pictured here in their distinctive U-configuration.

The first sounds heard upon entering the Atlantic Canada Museumobile are those of the sea: the rush of waves and the shriek of gulls.

Four lighted globes reveal the evolution of the continents. Pangea, the supercontinent of 200 million years ago, ultimately divides into the patterns of land and water so familiar to us today.

Lighted panels illustrate the geological formation of the Atlantic provinces which occurred millions of years ago. Samples of gems and minerals such as amethyst, agate, coal and iron ore illustrate the rich deposits of the Atlantic provinces formed during this period.

The Atlantic Canada Museumobile will make its only stop in the Pontiac in Fort Coulonge December 16 and 17, 1986.

This Museumobile is one of three presently in operation produced by the National Museums of Canada. Canada North represents the region North of the 60th parallel, Canada West represents the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta while Atlantic Canada represents Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

The Mobile Exhibits Programme was introduced by the Secretary of State in 1972 to increase the public's access to Canada's natural and cultural heritage. The mobile displays are aimed at those Canadians living in areas that are not otherwise served by major museums or cultural facilities.

These areas must be 80 to 100 kilometres away from urban areas. Fort Coulonge falls right on that minimum distance which is why it will be the only Pontiac stop. The Canada West mobile visited Fort Coulonge four years ago.

The museumobiles tour across Canada 45 weeks a year and all three are travelling in a different region of the country.

Displays in the museumobile explore the relationship between man and the sea and trace the geological, social, economic and cultural development of the Atlantic provinces. Extensive use is made of museum artifacts, specimens, models, dioramas and audio-visual presentations.

The Fort Coulonge exhibit will be at the Bryson Street parking lot. It is open to all with free admission.

Dump information meeting held

The pit, which is 450 feet deep, lies below sea level. It is presently filled with water. With her slides, Miss Aniskowicz pointed out icicles on the sides. She explained many of these were caused by water surface runoffs such as snow and rain. However, she also pointed out icicles formed on the edge of the cliff below a crack with no ice and snow above. This could mean there is ground water seeping in. There are several fissures above and below the surface which allow water to get into the pit.

Water pressure deep into the pit may also force this water to go out into the cracks.

A slide of a section of rock rubble which was taken after a light snowfall demonstrated that this section is not stable. Because the snow surface was not all level, there was rubble movement. Miss Aniskowicz expressed the opinion that even if it was possible to stablize the walls and stop the seepage of water through the cracks, there would still be surface water getting into the pit which will gather at the bottom.

The answer to this is that the water will be pumped out and treated before being thrown into the Ottawa River. Miss Aniskowicz said she was concerned that the treatment would not remove all of the dissolved substances such as paints and oil.

Following the presentations, a question period was held. Regarding job creation, Mr Poirier said Mr Lamarche estimated that 106 jobs would be established. Methane gas would also be gathered from the dump which could in turn create some industries. Mr Poirier added that apparently 75 people have applied for jobs so far even though at this stage everything is speculation.

Jack Graham stated that "as of this date, there has been no official application for a landfill site." Faced with the possible danger of pollution from the dump, Mr Graham asked, "Is it important how many jobs we create?"

"Money has never cured illness and I don't think it will ever cure the environment," he added.

Regarding the strength of Bristol's by-law, Mr Graham said it would take an Act of Parliament to change it. This would be done if the "good of Quebec" was being considered. Although both Mr Lincoln and MNA Robert Middlemiss have told Mr Graham that Bristol has control of its rights, he states, "We're not stopping there because that would be kind of naive."

"One can always contest a by-law," he added. Legally, it could be brought before the courts.

Mr Graham mentioned that Ottawa may be looking at getting its own site while the Outaouais Regional Council (CRO), which includes the municipalities of Hull, Gatineau, Aylmer and Pontiac, is looking at a site at Wilson's Corner as well as the Bristol site. The alternative site is secluded and in a mountain range.

However, Pontiac Mayor Marcel Lavigne warned that nothing has been cleared yet regarding the Wilson's Corner site. It seems that now Bristol and Wilson's Corner are the two choices for a dump for garbage from the CRO. It will take about a year, though, before any decision is made.

Arleen Prost, a member of PANAC, offered an encouraging proposition by stating that the organization is presently studying means to recycle garbage in the Pontiac.

Although much is still left unclear, Mr Poirier summed up his feelings on the matter by stating, "If we stick together and look after our own garbage, we can come up with something."

Job development program

Launched last fall as the Canadian government's new job strategy, the Job Development program is now entering into its second phase.

The Canada Employment Centre is once again, therefore, interested in receiving proposals from employers aimed at improving the employment prospects of participants by the effective blending of training and practical work experience.

Please note that applications must be mailed on or before October 17th, 1986.

The Job Development Program will contribute up to 60% of the workers' salary in the private sector and 100% in the public and non-profit sector. A limit of $350 per week per employee is imposed by the Program. Additional funds are available for direct training costs or for special equipment or renovations to hire disabled persons.

In the Pontiac, contact Project Officer France Delagrave (until October 17) at 648-2146 or the Hull office at (819) 997-2491.

Minimum wage increased

The minimum wage in Quebec has been increased since Wednesday, October 1.

The minimum wage has been raised by 35 cents and there will no longer be discrimination based on age.

This means that those workers aged more than 18 years who were getting paid the minimum wage of $4.00 an hour will now receive $4.35. Those workers aged younger than 18 who previously received $3.54 will also now receive $4.35.

Employees who receive tips will see their minimum salary raised from $3.28 to $3.63 an hour. This increase also applies to those employees aged 18 or less who receive tips and previously made a minimum of $2.95.

For domestics residing in the home of the employer, the minimum wage will be increased to $150 a week from $134.

According to the most recent statistics from the Work Standards Commission, roughly 90,000 workers receive minimum wage in Quebec. Quebec Labour Minister Pierre Paradis gave three reasons for the increases: to ease the deteriorating financial situations of those receiving minimum wage compared to other, more highly-paid, workers: to abolish discrimination based on age; and, to ensure that Quebec's competitive position be maintained.

IN MEMORY

If love alone could have saved you,
You never would have died.
